Triton College Hosting Global Music Series

Concert Features Artists from Chicago's Old Town School of Folk Music

RIVER GROVE, Ill. – The Triton College Visual, Performing and Communication Arts Department is hosting a Global Music Series on Wednesday, April 12, from 7-8 p.m., in the Performing Arts Center, R Building (Room R-218). Admission is free.

This performance will feature Eve Monzingo and George Lawler, multifaceted musicians from Chicago's Old Town School of Folk Music, who will perform pieces from Greece and around the Mediterranean.

“Through the Global Music Series, we offer free performances of exceptional quality,” said Salvatore Siriano, Triton’s lead music instructor. “Our concerts feature diverse programming that are accessible and enjoyable to music listeners of all ages.”

Siriano hopes that the Global Music Series exposes Triton students to diverse musical sounds to help them discover commonalities across ethnic traditions.
