

PRE-NUTRITION/ DIETETICS

Curriculum SCI.NTR.AS

Students interested in becoming a nutritionist or dietician must complete a bachelor's degree in nutrition or dietetics within a CADE-accredited supervised practice program and must successfully pass the Commission on Dietetic Registration (CDR) examination. Students can take this associate degree and then transfer to a university to complete their bachelor's degree in dietetics or nutrition.

Students should note that four-year colleges and universities vary in specific course and transfer requirements, therefore, it is important when selecting Triton courses to consult a Triton counselor, as well as the catalog and/or admissions counselor at the senior institution to which transfer is intended.
